

QUINN ●●●

*Olympic Gold Medalist | LGBTQ+ Advocate
Co-Captain, Vancouver Rise FC*

TheSpotlightAgency.com

QUINN

*Olympic Gold Medalist | LGBTQ+ Advocate
Co-Captain, Vancouver Rise FC*

At the 2020 Tokyo Olympics, Quinn made headlines as not only the first openly transgender and non-binary athlete to compete, but also the first to win an Olympic medal of any kind. As a midfielder for the Canadian women's national soccer team, Quinn helped the team earn a bronze medal at the 2016 Olympics and the historic gold medal at the 2020 Games. In 2025, Quinn joined the Vancouver Rise FC as a midfielder, and just one year later, was named co-captain of the team.

Making their international debut in soccer in 2013, Quinn is a professional player for Canada's national team and was drafted third overall in the 2018 NWSL College Draft, earning the title of highest drafted Canadian player in NWSL history.

Since then, Quinn played for OL Reign in the National Women's Soccer League (NWSL). In-between their time in the NWSL, Quinn spent two seasons playing in Europe, first with Paris FC in 2019, and then with Swedish side Vittsjö GIK the following year. In 2025, Quinn joined Canada's first professional women's soccer league, the Northern Super League (NSL), playing for Vancouver Rise FC and helping the team secure the inaugural Diana B. Matheson Cup.

In 2020, Quinn came out publicly as transgender after being misgendered by society and the media. In doing so, they became an inspirational public figure. Quinn is a vocal advocate for the LGBTQ2+ community, especially when it comes to sports. Quinn has been involved with Athlete Ally since they were a collegiate athlete at Duke University and has worked with Duke alumni and LGBTQ2+ activists to fight anti-transgender legislation that limits or prohibits the participation of transgender athletes in sports.

Quinn also serves on the Canadian Olympic Committee Athletes Commission and helps lead the Canadian National Team Players Association.

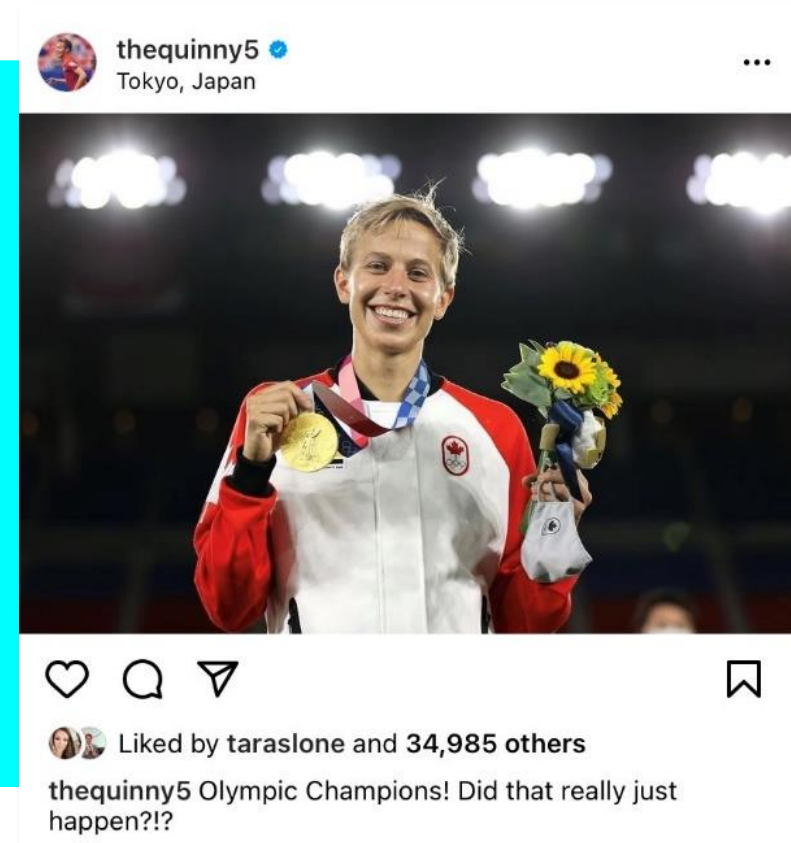

@TheQuinny5

70.9K+ Followers on Instagram

Audience Demographics

 27% 31% ages 25-29
 73% 27% ages 30-34

Top Countries: Canada, USA

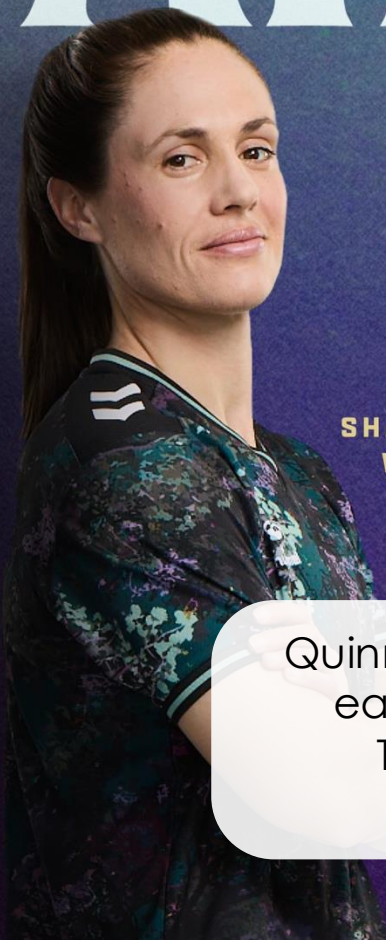

CAPTAINS

QUINN

SHANNON
WOELLER

Quinn plays professional soccer for Canada's National Team. They earned a Bronze at the 2016 Rio Games and a Gold at the 2020 Tokyo Games. As of 2025, they also play for as a midfielder for Vancouver Rise FC.

WATCH: Are Sports a Safe Place for Trans People? Quinn Speaks Out | CBC Sports

WATCH: On Being "Visible" and Playing at the Olympics | BBC Sport

Since publicly coming out as transgender, Quinn has been a vocal advocate for the LGBTQ+ community. Alongside Athlete Ally, they've actively fought against anti-transgender legislation that limits or prohibits the participation of transgender athletes in sports.

'This is people's lives': Canadian soccer star Quinn continues trans advocacy

Legislation passed in U.S., Canada has curbed trans peoples' participation in sports

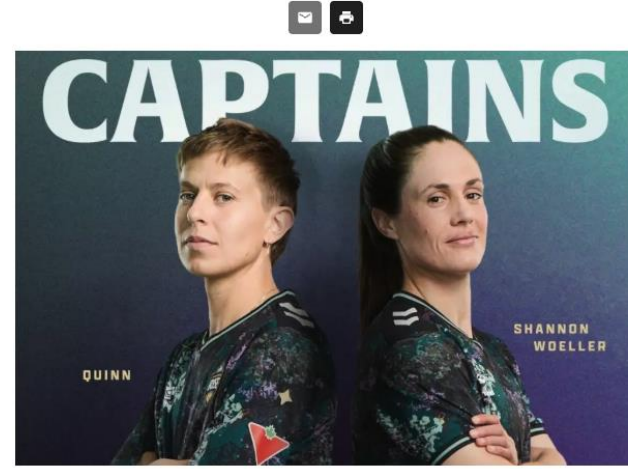

Gemma Karstens-Smith · The Canadian Press · Posted: Mar 27, 2026 7:44 AM EDT | Last Updated: March 27

Vancouver Rise FC name Shannon Woeller and Quinn as 2026 captains

Published 12:42 pm Thursday, April 16, 2026

By Anna Burns

Canada's Quinn Becomes First Trans Athlete to Win Gold Medal at Olympics

Canada women's soccer player also first non-binary athlete to medal at Olympics

By DANIEL KREPS

Forbes

Subscribe Sign In

F PROFILE

Quinn

Midfielder, Canada Women's National Soccer Team

Seattle, Washington

Quinn is available to partner with brands for a variety of initiatives, including:

- Spokesperson roles
- Media appearances
- Digital video and influencer content
- Guest appearances
- and more

Past partners:

Casper

Partnership Opportunities ●

For more information, please contact:

info@thespotlightagency.com

thespotlightagency.com

Contact Us 